PART I – DISTRIBUTION INFORMATION

Item 1. Distribution and Pool Performance Information.

The response to Item 1 is set forth herein and in Exhibit 99.1 and the following tables.

A. Composition of the Trust Portfolio

The receivables to be conveyed to the trust have been or will be generated from transactions made by holders of credit card accounts included in the trust portfolio.

For purposes of the tables below, "Number of Accounts" refers to all accounts in the trust portfolio, including any accounts that are inactive accounts and zero-balance accounts, which in some cases may be closed accounts that have not yet been removed from the originator's computer system and from the trust portfolio. The following information regarding the trust portfolio is as of November 30, 2023. Because the future composition of the trust portfolio will change over time, these tables are not indicative of the composition of the trust portfolio at any subsequent time.

Cardholders whose accounts are designated for the trust portfolio had billing addresses in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and other U.S. territories, except for approximately 0.02% of the principal receivables balance for the trust for which cardholders had billing addresses located outside of the United States, the District of Columbia, other U.S. territories, or military addresses. Except for the five states listed below, no state accounted for more than 5% of the number of accounts or 5% of the total principal receivables balances as of November 30, 2023.

The bank uses credit bureau scoring and a proprietary scoring model developed for the bank as tools in the underwriting process and for making credit decisions. The bank uses credit bureau scoring and a proprietary scoring model also for purposes of monitoring obligor credit quality. The bank's proprietary scoring model is based on historical data and requires the bank to make various assumptions about future performance. As a result, the bank's proprietary model is not intended, and should not be relied upon, to forecast actual future performance.

With respect to credit bureau scoring, the bank utilizes VantageScore® credit scores to assist in its assessment of credit quality. Credit scores are obtained at origination of the account and are refreshed monthly thereafter to assist in predicting obligor behavior. The bank categorizes these credit scores into the following three credit score categories: (i) 661 or higher, which are considered the strongest credits and therefore have the lowest credit risk; (ii) 601 to 660, considered to have moderate credit risk; and (iii) 600 or less, which are considered weaker credits and therefore have the highest credit risk. In certain limited circumstances there are obligor accounts for which a credit score is not available and the bank uses alternative sources to assess credit risk and predict behavior.

The below table reflects the distribution of the accounts designated to the trust portfolio by obligor VantageScore® as of November 30, 2023. Because the future composition of the trust portfolio will change over time, obligor credit quality as shown in the table below is not indicative of obligor credit quality for the trust portfolio at any subsequent time. In addition, the bank's assessment of obligor credit quality may change over time depending on the conduct of the cardholder and changes in the proprietary scoring models used by the bank.

B. Receivables Performance

The tables below contain performance information for the receivables in the trust portfolio for the eleven months ended November 30, 2023.

The composition of the trust portfolio is expected to change over time, including as a result of the addition of new accounts and as a result of the removal of accounts under certain circumstances. The future performance of the receivables in the trust portfolio may be different from the historical performance set forth below.

All data set forth in the tables below is reported on a collected basis. Average principal receivables outstanding is the average of the principal receivables balances at the beginning of each month in the period indicated. Fees include late fees and return check.

Delinquency and Loss Experience

The following tables set forth the aggregate delinquency and loss experience for cardholder payments on the credit card accounts in the trust portfolio for each of the dates or periods shown.

We generally expect that net losses and delinquencies in the trust portfolio will correlate with the general economy and unemployment rates. Global economic volatility and cyclicality of the lending/credit markets may have an adverse effect on the trust portfolio. More specifically, increases in delinquencies and charge-offs could occur, particularly if conditions in the general economy deteriorate.

In addition, as described in the prospectus filed with the Commission on May 11, 2023 under Registration Nos. 333-264255 and 333-264255-02, under the caption "Risk Factors—Transitioning credit card operations to new third-party service providers can be complex, and has resulted in and may continue to result in unanticipated technical and operational problems, which may adversely impact the bank's credit card business", the Services Transition (as defined therein) resulted in certain timing-related impacts on losses and delinquencies for certain periods within the 2023 calendar year, and as a result the loss and delinquency data set forth below may not be wholly indicative of loss and delinquency results that would have been experienced absent the Services Transition for such period.

We cannot assure you that the future delinquency and loss experience for the receivables will be similar to the historical experience set forth below.

C. Compliance with Underwriting Criteria

Review of Pool Asset Disclosure

In connection with this Form 10-D, the depositor has performed a review of the transferred receivables and the disclosure required to be included in this Form 10-D relating to the transferred receivables by Item 1111 of Regulation AB (such disclosure, the "Rule 193 Information"). This review was designed and effected to provide reasonable assurance that the Rule 193 Information is accurate in all material respects.

The Rule 193 Information consisting of factual information was reviewed and approved by those officers and employees of the depositor, Comenity Bank and their affiliates who are knowledgeable about such factual information. Counsel to the depositor and its affiliates reviewed the Rule 193 Information consisting of descriptions of portions of the transaction documents and compared that Rule 193 Information to the related transaction documents. Officers of the depositor and its affiliates also consulted with internal regulatory personnel and counsel with respect to the description of the legal and regulatory provisions that may materially and adversely affect the performance of the transferred receivables or payments on the notes.

Employees of the depositor and its affiliates populated the statistical information in this Form 10-D with respect to the transferred receivables using information derived from the bank's database. The statistical information in this Form 10-D relating to the transferred receivables was compared to information contained in the bank's database regarding the attributes of such transferred receivables. As a result of such population and comparisons, the depositor determined that the statistical information relating to the transferred receivables is consistent with the bank's database.

The depositor's review of the receivables is supported by the control processes routinely used by the bank's parent, Bread Financial Holdings, Inc., in the operation of its business. Bread Financial Holdings, Inc. achieves appropriate internal and external assurance work on its internal controls over financial reporting to maintain compliance with regulatory reporting requirements, including The Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. Such assurance work is designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting. The nature, timing and extent of such assurance work are driven by risk-based assessments of the parent's consolidated operations. The assurance work includes a review of the financial information from which the disclosure required by Item 1111 of Regulation AB regarding the trust portfolio is derived.

With respect to the disclosure under "Compliance with Underwriting Criteria" below, the bank periodically engages in activities that are designed to monitor and measure compliance with its credit policies, including testing of automated approval systems and monthly monitoring and compliance checks with respect to credit line decisions that are ultimately made outside of the automated system, as more specifically described below.

Portions of the review of the legal, regulatory and statistical information were performed with the assistance of third parties engaged by the depositor. The depositor determined the nature, extent and timing of the review and the level of assistance provided by the third parties. The depositor had ultimate authority and control over, and assumes all responsibility for, the review and the findings and conclusions of the review. The depositor attributes all findings and conclusions of the review to itself.

After undertaking the review described above, the depositor has concluded, with reasonable assurance, that the Rule 193 Information in this Form 10-D is accurate in all material respects.

Compliance with Underwriting Criteria

The bank makes virtually all underwriting and authorization decisions using an automated system that uses credit bureau scoring and a proprietary scoring model to determine an applicant's risk. This automated system determines whether to approve or decline a customer's request for credit based on this risk and also sets a maximum initial credit line on each approved customer's account, in each case without any underwriter discretion. In certain cases, the bank may further manually review applications that were initially declined through the automated process, either at the applicant's request or in connection with the bank's internal review process. In such cases, the bank verifies relevant customer data, makes any necessary corrections to the customer data and reevaluates such applications using the bank's underwriting criteria. The bank applies the same underwriting criteria in both the automated process, and during any manual reviews of applications initially declined through the automated process.

The bank's credit risk group performs monthly testing on applications to ensure that the automated system is processing applications as intended. The bank's credit risk group validates through population and sample testing to ensure adherence to bank's underwriting criteria. Testing is performed across all portfolios to identify divergences from the bank's underwriting criteria in applications approved through the automated process.

In addition, the credit risk group monitored manual approvals during the period from October 2022 through October 2023 for all applications that were initially declined by the automated system. Such monitoring determined that manually approved applications represented less than 0.01% of new applications during such period, which is consistent with the results of prior reviews. Accounts that are approved through the manual review process rather than the automated process, and are therefore considered exceptions, did not meet the bank's initial underwriting policies for the following reasons: applicants with no or low credit score; missing or invalid applicant information or duplicate applications. The bank determined to include the receivables for which exceptions were identified in the trust portfolio because the fact that the accounts did not meet the bank's initial underwriting policies would not have a material adverse effect on the trust, and therefore the exceptions do not cause the receivables to be ineligible for sale to the trust. Another compensating factor with respect to these exceptions is that the bank engages in ongoing monitoring of the files and adjusts the credit limits on accounts as necessary based on an updated measure of risk as determined by the behavioral scoring model that is calculated for active accounts.

The bank's internal audit department also performs annual evaluations and testing of compliance with the bank's credit card underwriting policy and process guidelines. Such evaluations and testing are designed to provide reasonable assurance that the application process produces credit accounts that comply with the bank's underwriting policies. The internal audit department's review of the credit line origination process completed in November 2022 consisted of independent reviews and testing of the automated execution of the credit risk management policies and standards, review of the credit risk group's monthly testing and monitoring of credit application overrides, and an assessment of the design and operating effectiveness of change management controls for the credit risk management policies and standards. The audit validated that change management controls were functioning as designed. These audits produced no significant observations relating to the bank's credit underwriting, manual approvals or credit line management processes.

No assets securitized by the depositor and held by World Financial Network Credit Card Master Note Trust were the subject of a demand to repurchase or replace for breach of the representations and warranties during the distribution period from November 1, 2023 to November 30, 2023.
